THE PUBLIC LIKES DE LUXE MODELS. There is abundant information in current automobile selling experience that the buyers like their cars completely equipped. By this is meant that they like them outfitted with everything the dealer or manufacturer can put on them. The Chevrolet super sports roadster, for instance, is exclusive to Canada, and with its dressier appearance, it reveals itself to be one of the most popular models of the year. The reason for this popularity of the de luxe models is not hard to fathom—people are drawn by features that are visible to the naked eye; obvious to all, simple, ornamental, easily understood. In the present mood, having bought a car, they would not go round the block to buy a lot of things to dress it up with; but, given a choice of two cars, one plain and the other ornamented, a very substantial proportion of buyers will take the dressed-up automobile.

Opening the Golf Course.

Close on fifty members took part in the official opening of Stony Plain golf club, held on Wed., June 17.

After the preliminary ceremonies, the mayor teed up and drove off the first ball—and, by the way, let us relate here that the doctor confounded the skeptics by driving a perfect ball to the first green—thereafter the teams chosen by the president and vice-president got into action, and as the scores came in from the different partners it was readily seen that the match was going to be a very close one with the decision in doubt until the last pair came in. Geo J Bryan had the low score of the day, equaling the course record of 32; while Mrs Yates copped off the ladies' record with a 43.

As usual the ladies contributed the greater share of the day's enjoyment by providing an excellent tea; while the bachelors held their end up by surprising us with the ice cream. Our "professional" had the fairways and greens in excellent shape for the day; and, with everything working smoothly under the capable management of the executive committee, everyone voted the day a huge success.

Notes from the Bunker.

We hear that one of our most prominent citizens won an ice cream cone on the first tee.

One of our lady golfers says "Well, Bobby Jones does it that way on the green."

What happened to George on his second round, after tying the course record?

Who was it, teed up, sent the ball about 3 feet, took it back and then had the nerve to count one? One fellow said: "Sure I missed it! but I didn't come near the ball; and I wasn't going to count that surely!"

We wonder who really got that 35 cents after all?

Who was it said they could play better when the Sun was out?

Who was it said: "Oh, well; if you count all the misses, you had better add about 9 to our score?"

How about having this thing every two weeks?

Spruce Grove sure held their end up. We'll be glad to see them on the course a little more frequently.

"Stout? Sure! But that doesn't faze me!"

Mac says: "Sh-sh-sh. It was worse than that."

Did you ever notice that the paid-up members usually play better golf than the others? Why? Well, he feels so much better about everything.

Better see the Secretary, and improve your golf.

Rumors are heard that a Cup is going to be put up for competition. Better be getting in the odd practice!

Don't Be Critical

There are two kinds of criticism,—one that nowadays we refer to as "constructive" criticism, and the other that in common parlance we term "destructive" criticism. To be exact, the word criticism should not be employed in connection with the latter.

Criticism is a fine old English word which in its pure significance, so a recent writer has pointed out, implies carefully weighing and balancing things, exact, authoritative judgment. Needless to say the heading over this article does not refer to such true form of criticism.

In modern usage the word has been debased, and divorced from its true meaning. Today its implication is not to take the measure of something or some one, but rather to point out, dwell upon, magnify the defects of something or some one. The tendency is not to balance, but to distort, to become cynical, to carp at, to indulge in wholesale fault-finding, in this sense to say that is rather than to work for betterment. It is in this sense we say: Don't be critical.

In so many respects people are the product of their environment that it takes an unusually strong person to stand erect and breast the crushing tide of current opinion. When times are prosperous, business booming, stocks and bonds mounting ever higher, when nine out of every ten people are optimists, many of them merely because it is the fashion to be so, they become extremely critical of the person who advises caution. Such a person is characterized as a non-progressive, labelled a back number, when as a matter of fact he may be more truly progressive, more far-seeing, more of a real builder than those who deride him.

Reversing the picture, we find in these present days that the vast majority of people are pessimistic and because conditions are admittedly not good they are critical of and would destroy those very institutions under which they developed and enjoyed their former prosperity, and they now denounce those who again urge caution and a carefully weighing of all the facts before taking a leap in the dark; they are impatient with and critical of all those who advise sane, clear thinking and careful, well-thought out action rather than wholesale destruction of that which has gone before.

Environment, too, has a great deal to do with our pet prejudices, and prejudice is the fruitful source of a very large percentage of harmful criticism. It is only the accident or circumstances of birth that makes a person one of the white race rather than a negro or an oriental. Many a staunch Protestant who criticizes, denounces and raves over everything pertaining to Roman Catholicism might just as easily been born a devout Roman Catholic and thus be the object of the criticism and scorn he now pours out on others, or he who now insists he belongs to the only true church might have been born one of those he now regards as a heretic, or even a heathen savage.

The circumstance of birth has placed some men on thrones, or in positions of luxury and wealth, while others have been born as slaves and into dire poverty. Each man may be doing his duty as he sees it, honestly and fearlessly, striving for individual, community and world betterment. But neither the one nor the other has the right to look condescendingly on his fellow man nor deride him. They may not agree upon what constitutes world betterment, and each has full liberty of action to strive for the attainment of that in which he believes or desires. Constructive teaching and action looking to the realization of desired ends is praiseworthy and should be indulged in, but narrow, bitter, illogical criticism, purely destructive in its nature and intent, is not only deplorable and to be condemned, but, in the final analysis, it is futile in results.

What this old world needs, probably more than anything else, in its present stage of development, is a more universal acceptance of the meaning of the good old English word, "criticism." People need to readjust their thinking processes, their words written and spoken, their actions; they need to subdue their passions, curb their prejudices, look beyond their environment; in a word, in business, in government, in community life, in all our intimate social intercourse, there is imperative need for careful weighing and balancing for fine, exact, authoritative judgment. Prejudice and selfishness require to give way to reasonableness, a willingness to recognize and study the other fellow's point of view.

That is, the world needs today, as it has always needed and always will need, the application of the Golden Rule, the spirit of co-operation, in the every day activities of life, be those activities great or small, vitally significant or relatively unimportant.

Business As Usual

An insurance agent had outstayed his welcome in a merchant's office, and took no notice of the many broad hints that he was making himself a nuisance. At last his victim got him by the scruff of the neck and pitched him downstairs. The man got up, retrieved his hat, and turning to the man at the top of the stairs, he said calmly, "Joking apart, what about that insurance policy?"

The Mother of Seven Children Used It for Diarrhoea

Mrs. Ray Drinkwater, R.R. No. 2, Hagersville, Ont., writes:—"I am the mother of seven children, and last summer one of the 17 months old, was taken very sick with diarrhoea, and I thought she was going to die. My husband went 7 miles to see what my sister had given her baby, and he came home with a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I gave the child a few doses and she was soon well again. My other children also had diarrhoea at the same time and I gave them 'Dr. Fowler's' with the same results."

Manitoba Visions

Huge Power Project Development Of Dauphin River Power Would Be Great Benefit To Province

A likely means of balancing agricultural and industrial development in Manitoba was pictured by Premier Bracken in his address to the Young Men's Section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, recently, "The Feasibility of the Dauphin River as a power development scheme." Properly developed, the Dauphin River project would be the largest individual development in Manitoba, he said, and would increase the power resources of the province by probably 400,000 h.p. It would round out the whole power situation in Manitoba; assure all parts of the province of a supply of low-priced hydro power for many years; facilitate the development of industry in urban centres and of municipal services in the rural centres with the possibility of adding 50 per cent. to the industrial future of the southern part of Manitoba.

Amish Menoments Ban Radio

Classify Them With Musical Instruments Sent By Devil

Bringing the extremely strict tenets of their creed up to date, the Amish Menoments conference of Ontario, which concluded a three-day session at the Mapleview church, Wellesley Village, near Kitchener, Ontario, has decreed that radios must be banned from all Amish Menoments homes, the sect classifying radios with musical instruments which have been barred since the sect was founded.

Musical instruments, along with many other modern luxuries and even some so-called conveniences, are banned from the homes of Amish Menoments as being instruments of the devil designed to lead the faithful away from devout worship of the Almighty. Penalty for violation of the ban on radios in the home is excommunication from the church.

One Hundred and Seventy Naturalization Certificates May Be Cancelled

Cancellation of 170 naturalization certificates which were obtained fraudulently has been recommended by Judge J. G. Wallace of Woodstock, Ont., who investigated many cases in Montreal and Toronto last April. The cabinet is considered the report at the present time but it is expected the recommendations will be followed. Consideration also is being given to the institution of criminal charges against those involved and to deporting them from the country.

Eats Poison Weed

Saskatchewan Boy Dies From Eating Wild Parsnips

After eating some wild parsnips, which he found near his father's farm, Gregory Kotek, now a well-known farmer of the Foam Lake district, died before medical assistance could be obtained. No inquest was considered necessary, the youngster having told his parents what he had eaten.

Wild parsnips are deadly poison, even when cooked. Recently the University of Saskatchewan agricultural authorities issued a warning against eating this weed.

Cloud Of Insects

Visits Alaskan Island

Report From Wrangell States All Vegetation Was Destroyed

A despatch from Wrangell, Alaska, states that a cloud of insects which killed the skies to such density that they could be grasped in the air by the handful, visited and destroyed vegetation on Vank Island.

J. G. Smith, a fox farmer, said the insects were borne to the island by a southwest wind. He described them as about half an inch in length, with red legs and with a head and mouth resembling an ant.

They alight on the trees and shrubs, eating a single hole in each leaf, he added. Strawberry blossoms turned black later.

Have Better Chance

The family which possesses a piece of land will work it so that it will produce the things they must have to sustain life, is vastly better off than the general run of population of the towns and cities, even though they may not be out of employment now. It has been a long hard pull lately for the farmers but they are not without something with which to pull, as is the unhappy condition of the unemployed in the cities.

Invents New Type Of Engine

Windsor Resident May Sell Rights To English Company

After 20 years of effort William MacKirdy of Windsor and Detroit is ready to offer for market an engine which is declared to be revolutionary and in many ways not comparable with anything on the market.

The inventor describes his product as a combination of the Diesel principle of internal combustion, that is, burning fuel oil under high pressure, and the principle of steam wherein the surplus heat of the Diesel—at present lost in water jackets—is utilized in generating a highly superheated steam. It has all the virtues of the Diesel practice and the steam principle, with none of the disadvantages, it is asserted.

When Sir Harry Brittain, director of D. Napier and Sons, of England, visited Detroit recently he crossed the river for the express purpose of examining the engine. On his request, complete plans of an engine for a mammoth flying boat have been forwarded to England. The English company has suggested taking over the world rights of manufacture if the engine meets with the inventor's claims. Sir Harry expressed himself as very favorably impressed.

Aim Of Marketing Committee To See That Producers Obtain More Of Value Consumers Pay

Directing its attention to the marketing of farm products, the House of Commons committee on agriculture heard Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, outline his suggestions as to how the committee should proceed. He urged that the attention of the committee should be first devoted to the marketing of dairy, bacon and poultry products, as these could be disposed of more expeditiously than the other elements involved in the problem. Later the committee could take up questions concerned with wheat and livestock.

The first aim of the committee is to see if we can make it possible for the producers to get more of the value which the consumer pays at the present time," he said.

"I want the committee to feel free to attack these problems of marketing without prejudice," said the minister, "and I think it should have representatives of the private, co-operative and produce interests, that it should meet from time to time and discuss the best means of marketing so as to avoid as far as possible the practice of private interests buying commodities at bottom prices and holding them for higher values without the producers getting the best value out of them."

What was needed was more education for the producer as to what should be produced and at what time it should be marketed, he said.

"We feel we should get the lowest freight rates from the steamship companies, but we cannot expect these companies to put their vessels at our disposal only for certain months. If we want cattle carried at the cheapest rate our supplies must be so distributed as to keep up a regular flow of cattle for export."

"Agricultural colleges should pay more attention to marketing," the minister proceeded. "Education is the work of the provinces, yet we could add to that by bringing one or two men at government expense and sending them through our agricultural colleges to give lectures on this subject."

The spread between what the farmer receives for his eggs and the consumer pays occupied the attention of the House of Commons committee on agriculture.

W. A. Brown, chief of the poultry division of the Department of Agriculture, addressed the committee on the operations of his branch. He analyzed costs to show that the farmer ordinarily received about 50 per cent. of the consumers price, the remainder going on freight, grading, wholesalers and retailers' profits.

Another Scientific Discovery

Process To Prevent Fermentation Of Frozen Fruits and Vegetables

Discovery of a process to prevent fermentation of fruits and vegetables frozen in storage, has been announced by the British department of scientific and industrial research. It has been found that if vegetables are boiled or partially cooked before they are frozen their color and flavor will be preserved unimpaired. Boiling, it has been found, destroys the enzymes completely and permanently, leaving the vegetables in such a condition that they may be safely frozen and stored in suitable containers, either under liquid covering or exposed to the air.

Pacific Coast Salmon Finds Ready Market In Distant Cities

"On the road to Mandalay" and east or west of Suva, also in London, Paris, Berlin and other famous centres, canned and frozen salmon from British Columbia was successfully marketed in 1930.

All varieties of Pacific salmon were included in the export shipments, but it was found that some markets, such as Paris and Berlin, apparently preferred in the frozen salmon cohes and the steadiest variety. Most of the shipments were made from Victoria and were sent to the distant markets over transportation systems equipped with cold storage facilities.

For the most part, the consignments were in the nature of test shipments, but the company carrying on the business reported gratifying success. It is expected that this year the field of shipment will be extended.

Artificial Fertilizers

300 Tons Of Fertilizer From Trail Plant Being Used In Sugar Beet Area of Southern Alberta

Three hundred tons of artificial fertilizers have been used in the sugar beet area of southern Alberta this season, and correspondingly large amounts are being utilised in growing other crops in other sections of the Prairie Provinces, according to Dr. E. E. Neidig, director of agriculture for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Trail. Two cars of fertilizer, which is being manufactured as a by product of smelting operations at the Trail plant were shipped to the Orient early in this year, said Dr. Neidig, and tests of its efficiency in increasing crop production are being carried on in every province from British Columbia to Ontario.

Saskatchewan Poultry Pool

Amount Of Business Transacted Shows A Large Increase This Year

Brisk business is being done by the Saskatchewan Poultry Pool this year, showing a marked increase over that of last year. Reports presented at the recent directors' meeting showed that from March 1st to May 2nd, the pool handled a total of 117 carloads of eggs and some of the larger branches, at the peak, towards the end of the period, were handling four carloads weekly. "The increase in volume is generally all over the province," says the report, "indicating that Saskatchewan as a whole is producing more of the product than ever before."

Vicious Operations Of Reparations And War Debts Delaying Economic Recovery

Establish Packing Plant

Saskatchewan Cattle For British Co-Operative Societies

Saskatchewan farmers are turning their attention more to the production of cattle for the British market. The Saskatchewan Co-Operative Livestock Producers, Ltd., is reported to have an agreement with British Co-Operative Societies for the shipment of live cattle and it is understood that negotiations are under way to supply these societies also with chilled and frozen products. The Saskatchewan company has purchased a building in Saskatoon and will immediately establish a packing plant. Modern machinery will be installed and will include a meat-processing plant and a chilling and refrigerating system. It is expected that the plant will be in operation within two months.

This is the first co-operative plant of the kind established by a farmers' organization in the Province of Saskatchewan. In addition to the export market which it is hoped to build up the plant will compete for local business. The location has been selected with a view to utilizing the new Hudson Bay route to Europe via the port of Churchill. First shipments are expected to go forward about the first of September.

Trap Nest Competition

Results Of Alberta 100-Day Winter Trap Nest Tests Are Announced

The records of the Alberta 100-day winter trap nest test for the year 1930-31 have all been checked and the official certificates issued. The three highest pens are those of Mrs. Ed. Kehoe, Camrose; F. J. Delman, Big Valley, and George Zinger, Stannora. The flock of Mrs. Kehoe, who is a director of the Alberta poultry pool, comes first with 80 per cent. of her Rhode Island Reds qualifying for certificates. Out of 65 birds entered, 28 laid 70 or more eggs during the 100 days, and 24 laid over 50. Only seven birds failed owing to low egg weights.

Valuable Chemicals From Alkali Lakes

Production Of Sodium Sulphate Last Year Amounted To 31,571 Tons

The alkali lakes of the Prairie Provinces have begun to add materially to the mineral production of Western Canada with an increase in 1930 of well over 500 per cent. in the production of sodium sulphate. From the deposits of this material, in plentiful supply on the Prairies, only 5,018 tons were taken in 1929, but last year, according to preliminary figures of the Dominion Government, production rose to 31,571 tons.

"The economic recovery of the world depends upon it," says a manifesto of the German government, and the "it" means a new deal about reparations and war debts. This unless it can be shown to be more politics and eyewash, is a grave and important statement, and no responsible statesman, we believe, will attempt to show that it is mere politics. It borrows significance from the desire to which it imposes $400,000,000 of new taxation upon the German people. And it fills in between the lines of the official communiqué—given out about that "week-end party" at Chequers Court, when the prime minister and the foreign secretary of Great Britain met their "opposite numbers" of Germany, Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curtius.

This new taxation is described as "one last effort." "Last efforts" in this world of human limitations turn out very often not to be anything like last efforts, and certainly there is no aid or comfort in the language of despair about this business. Also, it is probably extravagant to suggest that the present low condition of business and industry in the world is entirely referable to the vicious operations of reparations and war debts. But it is soberly true that the principal point of economic dislocation is international trade; that the symbols of the depression are international commodities, wheat, metals, cotton, sugar, rubber, coffee, oil; that the dead weight of reparations and war debts is a dragging burden upon the exchange and movements of those commodities. And it is true that the condition of Germany really does approach at last the place where the reparations scheme is likely to break down altogether.

Nothing can be done about this business—and there can be no realism in any discussion of it which refuses to meet the fact—without the consent and co-operation of the United States. The United States is the ultimate creditor of reparations and war debts. Germany is the ultimate debtor. The only way in which Germany can pay, if at all, is in the same currency in which all the war debts were originally contracted—in commodities. The United States insists that the debts must be paid. At the same time, the United States insists upon the maintenance of policies, domestic and foreign, which make it increasingly impossible to pay the debts at all. The high wall of tariffs which keeps out the commodities of the debtor nations is bound to keep out the remittances of payments on the debts.

That is the inevitable process, and that is the logic of the present situation of world depression, at least as much of it—and it is a tremendous part—which depends upon international trade. Germany has been paying reparations mainly by new borrowings—the calamitous paradox which means that Germany has been paying reparations by not paying them. It is an impossible state of affairs—it is a state of affairs that is to say, that is bound to crash—how much longer can it continue?—Vancouver Province.

Shows Faith In Canada

Sum Invested In Her Industries Is Over Six Billion

The impressive fact that the sum invested in Canadian industries is no less than $6,350,000,000 is mentioned by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, in a forward to the "Canadian Resources Supplement" published by the Financial Times of London, England. Still more impressive, he says, is the fact that sums contributed from outside sources are held in proportion of 61 per cent. by the United States and 35 per cent. by Great Britain.

Detailing a few facts to indicate the "extraordinary resilience of Canadian industrial activities during the period of acute world wide depression," Mr. Ferguson records as another impressive fact that building contracts during the last ten months of 1930 totalled $400,000,000. He says, "this hardly looks like fatalism or resignation to depression. Building contracts on this scale are as reliable an indication of Canada's prosperity as any that can be found."

THE POPULAR JUMPER SHELL LOVE BECAUSE OF ITS YOUTHFULNESS

Here's a cute one, and as simple as A, B, C, to make it.

It's a lightweight woolen in rather vivid green colouring. The binding and leather belt choose a deep green shade.

The tailored gumpie is a yellow beige washable flat crepe silk. It's a dress that offers such a decided change to wardrobe for immediate wear. It will be found especially lovely for sports later.

Style No. 187 may be had in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39-inch material for dress and hat with 2 yards of 35-inch material for blouse and 2 1/4 yards of binding.

Wool jersey in guardman blue with white jersey gumpie is jaunty.

A plaided crepe silk with plain blending crepe is extremely modish. Crepe woolsens, linen, wool challis prints and towed-like cottons are ideally suited to this model.

Pattern price 25 cents in stamps or coin (stamp is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Amend Copyright Act

Bill Drafted To Conform With Rome Convention Of 1928

Parliament has given third reading to a bill amending the Copyright Act, approving the final three clauses in a short time. Nine clauses were passed in committee. The bill went on to the senate.

Piloting the bill through the House, Hon. C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, said he hoped a thorough revision of the copyright law might be undertaken but indicated it would require "a great deal of time."

The bill is drafted in order to bring the present copyright law into conformity with the Rome convention of 1928, and Canada is expected to deposit this country's adherence to that convention by July 1. In general its purpose was to extend the provisions of the copyright so as to embrace radio broadcasting and cinematograph reproductions, those developments not being in existence when the original Berne convention was drafted.

As the bill operates, individuals who have not registered their works will not possess the right of suit in court in respect of such unregistered works. In the case of assignment having been made, only such assignments as have been registered will vest in the assignee whatever copyright rights are established. Unregistered assignments will have no status before the courts.

Organizations to whom copyrighted works have been assigned and who charge fees for the performance of such works will be subjected to government regulation if, after an enquiry by a commissioner under the Enquiries Act, it is shown that excessive fees are being charged or that the organizations are operating detrimentally to the public interest.

A Real Patriot

It was a beautiful Sunday morning. Simpson, having finished reading a paper printed with an invention made in Germany, set out with his wife for the meeting house of a faith found in Palestine. Contemplating the beauty of the land, which had been discovered by an Italian in the employ of a Spanish queen and musing on the liberty it possessed thanks to the help of a French navy, his bosom swelled with pride. "Thank God," said Simpson fervently in a language imported from the British Isles, "I am a one-hundred-per-cent. American."

Gandhi Prefers Humble

Quarters in London

Chooses To Live In Garret Among the Poorer Class

Mahatma Gandhi, who will leave India about the middle of August to attend meetings of the federal structures committee in London, England, has decided that when he gets there he will live among the most humble mendicants of Kingsley Hall, London's east-end home for the poor.

While India's other delegates to the round table conference install themselves in the city's hotels or the castles of their friends, he will be in a garret among surroundings not unlike those familiar to the people who revere him so highly at home.

If the weather permits he will not even alter his habitual costume of white shawl and thin cotton loincloth, but if it is cold he will wear a homespun coat and the conventional European trousers. When he appears before the King and Queen it will be in the Indian costume, with shaven head and bare feet.

Despite the problems of state with which he is concerned, one of his major considerations at the moment is how he will obtain fresh goat's milk in London, England, and on the way there. Contrary to reports he cannot take his own flock of goats which are milked twice daily in his presence, and it is likely he will instruct Miss Slade, his British attendant and disciple, to take along a supply of condensed milk.

Life is just a wide way street.

SWEEPSTAKES BILL IS OPPOSED IN THE SENATE

Ottawa, Ont.—A vigorous attack on the Hospitals Sweepstakes Bill was launched by Sir George Foster. The bill would make it legal for hospitals to raise revenue by conducting sweepstakes with the sanction of the attorney-general of any province. He concluded by moving the bill be given a six-months' halt.

The state owed a duty to look after its aged and its poor and its sick, Sir George said. It should not delegate that duty to a gambler's chance.

If this bill was made law, Sir George declared, he could see no limits to which propaganda to sell lottery tickets might not extend. With such a bill made law, he thought it was possible such degenerating propaganda might result as would "eat out the honest heart of the people of Canada."

Referring to the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, he called it "the great Irish industry." Everything was left to chance, and neither experience, skill, reason nor ability counted.

Senator Gillies said the majority of the people were opposed to the principle of the bill. Canada had had a disastrous period of stock gambling, and did not want a period of lottery gambling.

Senator Lacasse thought Sir George Foster's argument would have been stronger if applied to all forms of gambling. Money lost in gambling would not have gone to charity. He favored the bill because it transferred further rights to the provinces.

Senator Forke was opposed to the bill and seconded Sir George Foster's motion for a six months' halt. He sympathized with the object of the bill but not the method.

Senator Dandurand felt the object of the bill was a worthy one but did not like the principle.

Must Show Courage

Col. Woods, Of Calgary, Sees Dawn Of Better Times For This Dominion

Victoria, B.C.—Evidence of the dawn of a greater prosperity than Canada had ever known were seen by J. H. Woods, of Calgary, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. In many fields, chiefly in the healthy acceptance of the Canadian Conversion loan, he read foreword of the ascendancy of the Dominion.

He urged upon his hearers the necessity of showing courage, energy and integrity in order to develop the potentialities of the Dominion.

After outlining the aims of the Canadian chamber, Colonel Woods spoke of the success of its recent delegation to Argentina and Brazil, emphasizing the fact that those countries were friendly to the Dominion and desired to enter into greater trade relations with it. With markets lying fallow, he again impressed his hearers with the possibilities of Canada in the future.

Sea Cadets Give Display

Winnipeg, Man.—Delegates to the annual convention of the Navy League of Canada attended last night the annual assault-at-arms of the Winnipeg Sea Cadets. More than 100 cadets performed for the visitors. Judges included Admiral W. O. Story, Lieut.-Commander H. G. Nares, Brig. T. Y. Anderson and Col. G. H. Gillespie.

Vancouver, B.C.—Urging immediate construction of a railway connection between the Pacific Coast and the Peace River primarily as an emergency measure of unemployment relief and equally as contributing permanent relief through colonization, the executive of the On-to-the-Peace Association waited on Senator Gideon Robertson, Federal Minister of Labor.

Windsor, Ont.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, will return to Canada about August 1, it was stated at Kingsville, by Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. He remains in the Dominion for about six weeks, said Col. Kennedy.

Navigation Of Churchill

Port Now Reported To Be Free Of Ice And Work On Dock Nearly Completed

The Pas, Man.—Churchill's harbor is cleared of the final remains of the ice flow and it is possible now for craft to navigate along the river for many miles. Dredging will get underway within a day or two. White whales and seals may be seen from the harbor daily.

The break-up started nearly a week ago and was brought back and forth with the tide during the past few days. Ocean craft could now steam into the bay port without danger, according to word received here from the port Wednesday. The dock is completed enough to handle ocean-going boats now.

The big dredging program at Churchill will be completed this season. About 2,500,000 yards of material will be moved under the direction of engineers there.

Work on the 2,500,000 bushel elevator is now three weeks ahead of schedule and there is little doubt that it will be completed in time to handle the initial shipments of grain through Churchill this fall.

Funds For Idle Relief

Winnipeg Member Suggests Government Float Loan For This Purpose

Ottawa, Ont.—Floating of a national loan to provide funds to carry on unemployment relief works was suggested in the House of Commons by W. W. Kennedy (Cons., Winnipeg South Centre). He urged the continuance of the government's program of public works and as sufficient funds could not be obtained from revenue suggested a loan to which the Canadian people themselves should be invited to subscribe.

A fair test of the feasibility of the Hudson Bay route uncumbered by excessive marine insurance rates, the provision of pensions for the blind and overhauling of the machinery of investigating applications for war pensions were other suggestions thrown out by the Winnipeg member in his speech in the budget debate.

Pay Tribute To Heroes

School Children Decorate Graves Of Canadian Soldiers At Shorncliffe

Folkestone, England.—For the fifth successive year, thousands of school children gathered to deck with flowers the graves of Canadian soldiers in Shorncliffe cemetery.

"While we cannot hear too much nor in too forcible terms of the sin of war, on the other hand we cannot extol too highly the heroism, self-sacrifice and devotion, the instinctive motives that urge the manhood of the day to face inevitable mutilation and death," said Mayor J. W. Stainer, of Folkestone, addressing the school children.

May Help Wheat Sales

Ottawa, Ont.—The advance in the percentage of foreign wheat to be permitted in flour in France should increase Canada's wheat sales to that country, said Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Earlier this year only 10 per cent. of foreign wheat was permitted in French flour. This was subsequently increased to 25 per cent., and now to 30 per cent.

Better Times Ahead

Professor Swanson Looks For Greater Period Of Prosperity Than Ever

Saskatoon, Sask.—Commenting on the "better times are coming" interview with Roger W. Babson in New York, Professor W. W. Swanson, head of the department of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, said that "Babson was correct in his view that a greater period of prosperity than the world has ever known would follow the emergence from the present depression."

"There can be no real recovery of business until primary products, especially farm products, have reached higher values. Business as a whole will depend for its recovery fundamentally on international financial and commercial co-operation," he said.

"As far as the west is concerned only a return of higher price levels for wheat will start the process of business recovery. Wheat will tend to rise in price as the artificial surpluses are disposed of but the decline in the yield of wheat in the west this year will seriously retard recovery."

Waiting Reply To Note On Waterways

Washington Looking For Developments When Canadian Minister Arrives

Washington.—The Ottawa government is expected shortly to reply to the United States note of last September enquiring the attitude of the administration of Premier R. B. Bennett to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway enterprise. The impending arrival in Washington of Major W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to Washington and brother-in-law of the premier, is being looked forward to by United States officials as presaging important developments.

Want Full Inquiry

Winnipeg, Man.—Full inquiry into all circumstances in connection with the boarding by United States coastguards of the "Josephine K." on January 24, which resulted in the death of a Canadian sailor, will be urged on the Dominion government by the Navy League of Canada. This was decided in a resolution adopted at the annual convention here.

Farm Credit Proposal

Outlined By Beatty

Half Of Five Million Capital Of Company Now Subscribed

Ottawa, Ont.—Within a few weeks the organization of the Dominion Agricultural Credit Company will be completed. H. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, told the House of Commons committee on banking and commerce.

Designed to assist farmers in Western Canada in diversifying their operations, the company will go slowly and feel its way for the first few years. The idea, Mr. Beatty said, was derived from agricultural credit corporations of the United States which had functioned with success on similar lines in Minnesota and other states.

Up to the present about half of the $5,000,000 capital of the company has been subscribed and when the bill now before parliament to authorize banks, loan, trust and insurance companies to invest in the securities is passed, no time would be lost in getting the scheme under way.

Cattle Ships Needed

Not Enough Ships Available For Transport To Britain

London, England.—The question of providing shipping facilities for import of Canadian cattle to Great Britain came up in the House of Commons. A member said that in view of the fact that large numbers of cattle were held in Canada awaiting shipment because there were not enough ships available for transport the president of the Board of Trade should bring the matter to the notice of shipowners who controlled ships lying idle in British ports.

G. M. Gillett, secretary to the overseas trade department, replied he was informed shipowners were not satisfied that proposals in regard to the increased shipment of Canadian cattle were such as to justify them in incurring the considerable extra expense needed to fit ships for this special trade. He understood, however, that discussions were now taking place between representatives of the shipowners and the shippers on the subject.

New Record For Hawks

Aviator Travels 200 Miles Per Hour From London, England, To Rome, Italy

Rome, Italy.—Captain Frank Hawks landed here on a round trip flight from London, England, completing the trip at an average speed of nearly 200 miles per hour.

Captain Hawks made the flight in the record time of four hours and 39 minutes. He found the weather fairly good all the way, but was surprised at his own speed.

Croydon, England.—Capt. Frank Hawks brought his fast monoplane down on the field here, completing a flight from Rome in five hours flat.

Must Surrender Books

Victoria, B.C.—The attorney-general of British Columbia must surrender all books and papers of Solloway, Mills and Company which have been seized and held under the Securities Frauds Prevention Act, the court of appeal ruled in final settlement of the appeal of W. J. McGee versus Hon. R. H. Fooley.

STRICT ECONOMY NEEDED FOR C.N.R. SAYS MINISTER

Ottawa, Ont.—The motto of the Canadian National Railways should be "care, caution and proper economy," Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, informed the House of Commons. While denying the charge that the government is unfriendly to the Canadian National, the minister stressed the need for careful examination of accounts, and the exercise of economy in the management of the system.

"I say that the statement that is being foolishly made by some of the press of the leader of the opposition that we are enemies of the Canadian National, is simply an untruth," Dr. Manion warmly declared. "Any man who is an enemy of the Canadian National Railways is not a good Canadian, and therefore, as I consider this a good Canadian government, and that we are at least good Canadians, we are not the enemies of the Canadian National but its friends, desirous of looking after its best interests."

While presenting facts and figures which indicated that the financial position of the government system is such that the greatest care and economy must be practiced, Dr. Manion's statement was not without a ray of hope for the future of the railway. If the depression passes, if unwise capital expenditures are eliminated and costly changes are not carried out, and if economical management is brought into play "and if we do not neglect this country, we are reasonable in their demands from the National Railways and from the government. I think within five years there will be a very much more hopeful and cheerful picture," the minister said.

Winnipeg Is Visited By Caterpillar Plague

Insects Devour Leaves On Whole Groves Of Trees

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—With whole groves of trees almost denuded of leaves, particularly in Kildonan Park, and Elmwood cemetery, Winnipeg is suffering a severe visitation of the caterpillar plague.

Millions of writhing green insects, have devoured countless leaves in preparation for their pupa stage.

The public parks board attempted to wipe out the vandals with arsenic leaf, but according to George Chappin, superintendent, the equipment and staff available have proved insufficient to combat the hordes of tiny leaf destroyers.

Farmers Going North Are Making Mistake

Timberland Soil In Northern Saskatchewan Usually Bad

Saskatoon, Sask.—Farmers of the dried-out south country who are moving to timberland regions of the north are making a mistake. That is the opinion of A. H. Joel, head of the soils department at the University of Saskatchewan.

Professor Joel, in an address before a Kiwanis club luncheon meeting here recently, said: "I get like to see hordes of people going north. Timberland soil is bad as a mile. If, however, they settle on black grassland soil in amongst the timber they may be alright."

Due In Revenue For May
Ottawa, Ont.—Canada's revenue from customs and excise duties and excise taxes for the month of May were $16,078,838, as compared with $16,042,825 for the corresponding month last year. Figures were released Tuesday by the Department of National Revenue.

Angela's hand, resting on her steamer chair not far from Nick's, caught his suddenly in a frightened clasp. He turned toward her, startled, but she had already drawn it away, and was looking out to sea. "Any of you here there?" persisted the Colonel cheerfully. "Nobody had."

"It's just a long neck of land stretching out into the sea," he went on affably. "Rocks, and berry bushes, and one wide, wonderful curving beach—at least, that's what it was before the summer people took it up. It's some colony now, finest hotel in the state out on the point beyond the artists' studios. Never hear your name, Mrs. Halliday, without remembering something rather ghastly that happened there a year or two ago—the only summer I've missed being there in a long time. Some people named Halliday took a house there for the summer. Any relatives of yours?"

"No," said Angela, her voice queerly breathless. "No; never heard of the place."

"Quite a yarn," went on the Colonel. "These Hallidays (just a man and wife, I believe), were evidently a queerly assorted pair. He was a quiet chap—professional man of a kind, and crazy about his wife. Never looked at anybody else. She was different. Wasn't happy without a man at her heels. Before the summer was over some called her a murderess, but—"

"It's getting awfully chilly," broke in Angela. "I think I'll go for a walk."

She would have risen, but Amy Myers tossed a sweater into her lap. "Take that. I'm melted; the air's so breathless. Do go on, Colonel Nowell; this bids fair to be exciting."

The Colonel obeyed eagerly. "They hired the Burgess place, the finest big house out by the cliffs. The cottage next to it was taken by a man named Ashley—an artist from somewhere in New York state. He had a wife and baby. Ever since then; nice, honey sort of people, I understand, though Ashley himself was—well—his views were a trifle too radical to suit some of the regular population of the Neck; though I doubt if they thought much about it till after the tragedy."

The Colonel leisurely lighted a cigar, enjoying the sense of keeping his audience in suspense. Angela stirred again, as if she would arise, then sank back in resignation as he continued, her hands tensely clutching the arms of her steamer chair.

"Well, this Mrs. Halliday was a sort of vampire. She tried her charms on the Rector of St. Anne's, but they didn't work, so she began on Ashley, and before she was through she finished him—literally. The servants told afterward that they heard her husband remonstrating; but she had a high temper, and I guess he couldn't do anything with her. Anyhow, Ashley went off in a gasoline launch with her one day, and didn't get back till morning. When he landed and went to his own cottage (probably agitated blue, too, trying to think what he'd say to wife), he well, he found that he didn't have to say anything. She'd taken carbolic acid an hour before."

"How horrible!" exclaimed Nick, wholly unconscious of the rigidity of the form beside him. "But that's not all." The Colonel was plainly relishing the effect of his lurid tale. "Mrs. Ashley was in the bath alone, and so the neighbors gathered, when the baby wailed, and yelled so long that someone went in to investigate. Ashley had evidently turned her over to see if she were gone; and then he'd reached for his razor and slashed his throat."

Angela had risen. Even in the moonlight her face looked pallid. "That's not a pretty story, Colonel Nowell," she said unsteadily. "It's almost too creepy." She laughed a forced little laugh that rang out loudly on the still night. "Well, I think I'll turn in now. Night, every body. Hope there's some air to breathe tomorrow."

She moved toward the door, staggering, though the sea was like a mill pond. Nick sprang to her side, putting an arm about her until she reached the stairs.

"All right?" he questioned. "That was a heavy yarn to spin a night like this. Sure you're all right?"

But Angela did not speak as she fumbled blindly for the bannister.

When he came back the Myers family were preparing to go to bed; but Colonel Nowell was at the rail, and motioned Nick to join him.

"Hope my story didn't upset the little lady too much. Say I wonder if those Hallidays weren't some relation by the name of 'Uncle Sam' Halliday; but she said she'd never heard of Painter's Neck."

"I think it was just Mrs. Halliday's extreme sensitiveness," Nick answered. "She seemed nervous, I noticed, when you began to talk. What if she came of those people, Colonel Nowell?"

The Colonel shrugged. Nick had noted this growing habit, and wondered if the little man had caught it from Angela.

"You mean the Hallidays? They left the Neck at once—naturally. She was in a sanitarium for a time—used up nervously. Gosh! do you wonder? They never went back to the Neck, and that's all I know, though, come to think of it, someone told me last summer that Halliday had provided for the child—the Ashley child. Look! there's a big cloud gathering. Wonder if our good weather's over."

In their cabin below, the Myers had undressed in silence. It was as Myer dutifully stooped for his good-night kiss, that he said, jerking a thumb in the direction of Angela's stateroom: "Well, what do you make of that?"

His wife smiled. "I think our friend isn't always a successful actress; but let's not talk about it here. These partitions are thin. Good-night."

And behind that thin partition lay Angela, half dead pressed against her heels, as if to shut out some horrid picture.

She was thinking: "They said the carbolic had spilled over her face. She was burned horribly. . . . What else could the man do then? . . . Why didn't she give him time to explain? . . . I didn't hurt him! . . . My God! I won't they ever let me forget!"

As she turned dry-eyed to the wall she was conscious of an inexplicable longing—an aching want for the steady touch of her husband's hand.

secured by clouds, and the face of the deep seemed vaguely familiar. After the Colonel left him, Nick sat for a long time on deck, enchanted with the night—the soft and fragrant breeze—the thought that it was he, Nicholas Hastings of Bakerville, U.S.A., who had seen the woman and beauty of these tropic isles. Wooded, craggy, tipped bits of fairyland, they seemed to him. All his life he would be grateful for these weeks, and grateful to Angela, who had made them possible.

He frowned as his thoughts turned to Angela. She was undoubtedly upset by the Colonel's story—curiously so. Putting two and two together one night, think of it! It was a hard thought. He hoped none of the others had grasped it. Of course Colonel Nowell had never met James Halliday. He couldn't know how near the story fitted. And Angela did enjoy having a man at her heels. Nick smiled into the clouds. Why, she even enjoyed an old married man like himself! It was perfectly evident, and with Mrs. Myers. Perhaps she was one of those women who didn't care for her own sex. That might account for Gay's strange aversion to her.

Gay! Why, it was a relief just to think about her! No wonder she and Angela didn't hit it off. They were so different. Gay could talk to the men—could keep them interested (hadn't he seen Halliday himself looking at her as if he thought her a little piece of all-right?), but she didn't look at him the way Angela did. Gosh! he was glad she didn't. Not that Angela meant anything by it either. They were just—well—different, that was all.

He arose, walking a bit restlessly up and down, glancing at the clouds up there, hiding the familiar stars; wondering why Angela had grasped his hand so suddenly at the mention of Painter's Neck. Yet she said that she had never heard of the place. "I'd give a penny to know," he mused quietly; then broke off with an impatient: "No! I wouldn't either! Thunder! where are my thoughts taking me? Why, if it were Angela, she'd been even the indirect cause of that ghastly happening, she wouldn't look at another man as long as she lived! No decent woman would. It must have been nerves, and— and sympathy, that's what it was. Gosh! I hope the others didn't notice. The Colonel caught on all right, but he's a gentleman. He'll keep his mouth shut."

Women and Asthma. Women are numbered among the sufferers from asthma by the countless thousands. In every climate they will be found helpless in the grip of this relentless disease unless they have availed themselves of the proper remedy. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has brought new hope and life to many such "asthmatic" sufferers, entirely without solicitation, show the enormous benefit it has wrought among women everywhere.

Stained Glass Windows In Battleship Chapel

Dedication Ceremony Performed On Crater "Repubus" Was Unique

The unique ceremony of dedicating a stained glass window on board a battleship was performed at Sheerness by the chaplain of the fleet, Archdeacon Walter K. Knight-Adkin, on the battle cruiser "Repubus." "Repubus" is the first ship in the Royal Navy to have her chapel adorned in this way, and the window fits into an ordinary porthole in the ship. Before the ceremony the chaplain addressed the officers and men of the quarter deck. The designer is Archibald Nicholson. The window represents St. Nicholas blessing two sailors.

It is better to have little knowledge with humility and small understanding than greater treasures of learning with a vain self-conceit.

Eating When Tired Is Bad For Digestion

Body Needs Chance To Recuperate
Just Rest, Dr. Hager Than Food.
When you are tired don't eat. Rest in times of fatigue, will do more for the digestion than something thrown into the stomach, says Hygiene, the health journal.

Many people develop a habit of eating or drinking to relieve fatigue or merely to pass away the time. When a person is tired the body needs a chance to recuperate. It is not then advisable to take in quantities of food or to overstimulate the body with drinks and drugs.

Human beings need food to develop energy for daily work. The antidote to desire for food is the feeling of satisfaction. To go on eating merely because food is set before one, after satisfaction has been reached, is to overtax the system. Because people are more moderate now in their eating and drinking they are living longer than their forefathers who gorged themselves on food in the belief that the more they ate the stronger they would become, and who boasted of being "three-bottle men," Regina Daily Star.

Aviators Have Narrow Escape

Almost Sucked Into Crater Of Volcano In Alaska

Man, for the first time, has flown over the craters of the Katmai volcano on the south shore of Alaska Peninsula; but the suction of cold air towards the hot crater, 21 miles in circumference, pulled the aeroplane toward the pit, and only a sudden dive away from the gaseous mouth saved the ship from lunging into the hole.

A plane, piloted by Harry Blunt, with Al Monson, mechanic, and carrying Father Desmond J. Hubbard, the "Glacier pilot," after several days waiting for good weather, soared over the world's largest active crater taking off from Chignik Bay.

Sailing over some crags, several hours before the eruption, the plane was attacked by the "glacier" wind. Father Hubbard, reported, sneaking from behind a short turn and diving in. The propeller wash turned them over like chips of the ocean; but, screaming, they came back for more until out-distanced.

PRAYER FOR THE JOURNEY

Oh, God of small things as of great,
Of atom as of star,
Let me not fear or hesitate
Before the things that are!
Let me unflatteringly go
Always with steadfast trust,
Since that I know the content in all
The plan is wholly just.

Oh, God of worlds unguessed, remote,
And farthest deeps of space,
Yet not too vast a force to note
The spider's silken lace,
And heed the tiny sparrow's fall,
Let me serenely tread
The path of life, and go content in all
The paths where I am led.

Oh, God of small things as of great,
Of atom as of sun,
Let me not doubt or hesitate
Till all my course is run.

Long-Lived Twins

Retired Farmers Just Celebrated Their Ninety-First Birthday

Theresa Agnes Goding and Miss Clara Goding, whose deaths at the age of 88, within a few days of each other at Rochester, were announced recently, were reputed to be the oldest twins in England.

A Lincoln resident has stated that at Haxby, recently, two retired farmers, John and William Cooper, celebrated their ninety-first birthday. They are known as the "Haxby twins."

Turner Valley Oil

Deliveries of Turner Valley naphtha and crude during May totalled 118,314 barrels, as compared with 114,217 barrels, in April. Sales to farmers at the wells have been continuing in fairly large volume, so that the deliveries do not represent the total production. Farmers purchases amount 500 barrels daily from the various companies.

LOSE YOUR FAT This sensible way

Start taking Kruschen Salts—these are common-sense ways to reduce. Don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels and kidneys in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd almost regard as a miracle.

As a result of eating Kruschen Salts you get in an easy chair every free moment and letting fatty fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water three times a day. The food you eat—take regular moderate exercise—then watch the pounds slide off.

Little Helps For This Week

"For we have great joy and consolation in Thy love."—Philemon 1.7.

Thou in adversity cannot be a sun; Thine the healing balm, a sheltering tower;

The peace, the truth, the life, the love of God.

Now wound, nor grief, nor storm can overpower;

Gifts of a King, gifts frequent and yet free:

There's none like Thee, O Lord, none, more like Thee.

—Maria J. Jewsbury.

There is no father, no brother so pitiful and compassionate as He who calls you His child. Whatever else may fall, be sure that His everlasting love will not fail. He is with you in your struggle against sin, in your search for truth, your woes and griefs, and loneliness, and trials. All your hope, all your patience, all your regard for what is excellent and imperishable, come from Him. And as He has given you your capacity for His friendship and His likeness, He will train you and guide you to Himself if you are submissive and obedient.—Horatio N. Powers.

Wise and experienced mothers know when their children are troubled with worms and lose no time in applying Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge. It is absolute in clearing the system of worms and restoring those healthy conditions without which there can be no comfort for the child, or hope of robust growth. It is a most trustworthy worm exterminator.

Telephones Per Square Mile

Britain Comes Fourth, But Tenth
When Population Is Considered

It was recently suggested by the "Telegraph and Telephone Journal" that a very fair test of telephone development in a country is the number of 'phones to the square mile. Taking this test, Great Britain comes fourth on the list with 21.8 telephones per square mile. But there is very little in it. Holland, which heads the list has 22.8 telephones per square mile; Belgium, 22; and Denmark, 21. The United States is sixth on the list with 8.6 'phones to the square mile. Both Canada and Australia have fewer telephones than they possess square miles of territory. However when it comes to a test of population, Great Britain only comes tenth on the list.
